LAMELLO FAST CLIP-IN CONNECTOR OFFERS
VERSATILE, AESTHETIC JOINERY WITHOUT SCREWS OR GLUE

KINGSTON, MA—The new FAST® concealed, self-clamping, snap-in connector from Lamello is the latest wood joining solution offered by Colonial Saw Company, America's distributor of Lamello precision Swiss power tools and wood joining systems. This biscuit-shaped joining element is easy to install with any biscuit joiner or the Lamello Classic C3 and requires no screws or glue. FAST's self-cutting edges anchor the connector when driven into the groove with a hammer. The connector snaps in from the front to connect the work pieces together for a perfect joint alignment with no lateral movement. FAST is a quick installation solution for parts that must be quickly assembled and detached such as valence covers, mechanical access covers, and decorative profiles. It works for both wood and wood composites. Available in blister packages of 50 pairs, which include instructions and depth stop jig for accurate slot to be cut on any biscuit joiner.

Lamello U.S.A. is a division of Colonial Saw Company, Inc., the exclusive importer of Swiss-made Lamello specialty tools, biscuits, and biscuit joiners for over 40 years. Lamello products are available from authorized dealers throughout the USA. Lamello invented the biscuit joining system in the early 1950s, and today the company is a world-famous industrial manufacturer of wood joining technology and tools. For over half a century, Colonial Saw Company has delivered uncompromising performance and value, along with one of the most comprehensive and responsive after-sale customer support programs in the American woodworking machinery industry.
